Iowa State University, Ames, IA
December 2011

This report is about the joy and concern of our ministry through the Fall semester. We met to celebrate God's grace on Sunday mornings. On Friday evenings, we met to praise and share fellowship. Many people came for Friday night praise, and our college students even held a church lock-in where they grew closer to God and each other. Along with our worship services, we gathered in seven groups to study Bible. An average of 55 undergrad students and grad students joined Bible Study every week. Also, during the week, we met to pray every weekday morning at 6 am. An average of 8 people attended. In order to reach students, we sent e-mails explaining our ministry to the incoming students with the help of the admission office at the Iowa State University. We circulated a monthly news letter to promote our fellowship. Besides these events and activities, Pastor Man Sung Kim did home visitation and counseling. We appreciate your prayers and support for our ministry.
