Praises, Thanks, and Prayer Needs

- Thank God for a safe delivery for Hauwa, our daughter who got married last November. Although the delivery came with difficulties, we thank God for the doctors, nurses, and other health workers whom God used to save her life.
- Thank God with me for years of ministry with CRWRC. Pray for God's leading during retirement.
- Continue to pray for Rifkatu as she continues as the CRCN women leader, combining that with her responsibility as a school principal.
- Youth unemployment is a big challenge in Nigeria. Many young people are turning to crime. Armed robbery and kidnapping people for ransom has become a matter of serious concern to the government and people of Nigeria. Pray that solutions may be found.

It Has All Been about Family and Community Empowerment and Transformation

I want to use this report to express gratitude to God and his people for the involvement of CRWRC in the lives of families and communities in Nigeria. Thank you for keeping me employed and for making my work fulfilling and enjoyable for over thirty years. I have had the privilege to work with some of God's humble, loving, and compassionate people. I love you all and will greatly miss you. Let us keep each other in prayer.

Hauwa and baby

Thank you for positively affecting the lives of families and communities in Nigeria and elsewhere.

Through your partnership and support the following has been achieved:

Through our community development programs many communities were organized and empowered to deal with their problems.

Through our agricultural programs new innovations in agriculture—unknown to the communities we worked in—were introduced and have contributed to making farmers more productive.

Working with churches in diaconal ministry, the churches' witness has been enhanced as they became more involved with people and communities in the ministry of mercy.

Through peace and reconciliation efforts, communities that were sworn enemies are learning to become constructively engaged with each other in order to live together in peace.

I know that the times are hard economically and resources are not becoming more abundant. Disasters both manmade and natural continue to threaten human existence worldwide. I am writing this report at a time when disaster of unimaginable proportion has hit the nation of Haiti. I am praying that the God who has always supplied the needs of his people will continue to supply your needs and beyond so that you may continue to put smiles on peoples faces around the world.

Yours in the Lord.
